Arizona Diversity Council Announces New Leadership

Phoenix, AZ – –The Arizona Diversity Council has announced new leadership in various Advisory Board positions this year. The President, Vice President, and Secretary roles have officially been transferred to a new group of accomplished professionals. These individuals will be tasked with ensuring the continued growth and development of the council.

“We are happy to welcome this new group of outstanding leaders to our team in Arizona,” said Dennis Kennedy, Founder and Chair of the National Diversity Council. “We have no doubt that their exceptional leadership qualities and dedication to encouraging diversity and inclusion will positively contribute to the achievement of Arizona Diversity Council’s goals.”

Cheyenne Ross, Arizona Vice President of Compliance & Regulatory Affairs at Bridgeway Health Solutions, has been appointed as the new President of the Arizona Diversity Council. Ross is a strategic leader with over 15 years of experience in translating Federal and State regulatory requirements into maximum outcomes for Medicaid and Medicare members. Her previous role as the Arizona Diversity Council secretary has equipped Ms. Ross with the insight and experience necessary to serve as an effective President.

Dareion Johnson, Human Resources Executive Associate at USAA, has been appointed as the new Vice President. Johnson currently supports the USAA HR initiative by supporting strategy and delivery, focusing on expansion, and improving employee experience at the Phoenix campus. Prior to joining USAA, Johnson served 12 years in the United States Navy. His professional experience in both the military and civilian workforce has left him prepared to achieve success in his role as Arizona Diversity Council’s Vice president.

Cameron Robb, Assistant Director of Employer Relations in Graduate Career Services at Arizona State University, has been appointed as the new Secretary. Robb is responsible for key initiatives such as establishing ASU Affinity groups, managing job shadow/mentorship programming, leading employer site-visits and facilitating philanthropic investments. She is passionate about the Arts and has a professional reputation built on dynamic leadership, positive communication, and the ability to maximize individual strengths in others. Cobb’s exceptional leadership skills will guarantee her success in the Arizona Diversity Council Secretary role.

The Arizona Diversity Council welcomes these outstanding executives with full confidence that their leadership will enhance the council’s positive progression. The Arizona Diversity Council would also like to thank the former President, Leslie Solondz, former Vice President, Ron Bolden, and former Secretary, Cheyenne Ross for their exceptional leadership in the past. Their hard work and dedication to their role has contributed immensely to the success of the organization.
